The local school board of the Flatbush urging the building of a new Erasmus High officially sent out the following circular:

CITY HALL CENTENARY COMING. Plans Completed to Have the Interior Renovated v. 1903.

The plans for the renovation of the City Hall and for the alterations decided upon on the interior of the building to make in their anxiety to find employment and it conform to the original architectural design have been completed by William M. Aiken, the architect employed by Bor- ployment for Students for any kind of work ough President Cantor. The work will begin at once and be done by 1903. The city began the erection of the City Hall in 1803, when the population of the city was 72,557, and it was finished in 1812, the population having then increased to 95,-920. The cornerstone for the building was laid by Mayor Edward Livingston. It was originally constructed by day's work, the stonecutters being paid $1.25 a day at first and thereafter $1 a day. Contracts were made for supplies and the material was furnished as needed; all under the supervision of John McComb, Jr., a native of this city, who received $6 a day for every day he was engaged upon the

The price paid per cubic foot of marbl was $1.08, delivered in New York. Altogether there were 32,274 cubic feet used at that price. In 1808 a contract was made for 2,000 cubic feet more at $3 a cubic foot. The Board of Alderman at that time had charge of the construction, and a prize of $3:0 was awarded for the plan and elevation of the four façades. The committee in charge of the preparation of the plans was discharged after the plan was accepted, and a committee of the board, consisting of a member from each ward, was selected, composed of Aldermen Oothout, Van Zandt, Brasher, Barker, Minthorne, LeRoy and Bogardus. The committee having charge of the work at its completion was composed of Aldermen Morris, Fish and Douglas and Messrs. Waldron and Law-

The architect, Mr. McComb, also fursushed designs for the Government House M New York, St. John's Church, the Murray and Bleecker Street churches, Washington Hall and many other public and private buildings in New York, Philadelphia and elsewhere. He was a governor of the hospital, a strong supporter of Fulton, and was denounced with Gov. Clinton for his consistent and persistent advocacy of the Frie Canal

the Eric Canal.

The building cost about $500,000. Its dimensions are 218 feet long and 105 feet wide. The southerly front and easterly and westerly sides are built of marble from quarries at Stockbridge, Mass. The northerly front, as well as the walls surrounding the first floor, is of red sandstone from Newark. The reason given was that the building was so far nutown that few records

Newark. The reason given was that the building was so far uptown that few people would ever see the northerly side of it.

When first completed the building was occupied by the Supreme Court, the Court of Chancery, the Surrogate, the Mayor, the Aldermen, the Sheriff, the County Clerk, the Recorder, the Register, the Street Commissioner, the Inspectors and all other minor officers. In 1830, $6,500 was spent for a bell and for arranging the curols Whatever caused the fight, there could be no doubt that it happened. In court Playle's head was wrapped in bandages while Jackson had a scalp wound, a black eye and several bruises on the head.

At the request of counsel, Magistrate Barlow paroled Playle and admitted Jackson to bail. The case will be heard next spent for a bell and for arranging the cupola to accommodate a clock with four dials. The clock was destroyed by fire in 1858, caused by fireworks, discharged in cele-brating the successful laying I the first Atlantic cable.

The architecture is of Italian Renaissance, the first story of Ionic style, while the Corinthian prevails on the second story.

The original plans are in the possession of the New York Historical Society, and were presented to the society by Mrs. Wilds, granddaughter of the architect. School. The present old frame structure is declared in an unsanitary condition and dangerous. It is contended by the board that the city is bound, according to the terms upon which the property was accepted in 1897, to erect a new building.
